Taipei - Taichung

Taipei & Taichung

While Taiwan sits only 180 km off the coast of China and technically falls within the Republic of China, the island state offers a true world of its own. Blending Chinese, Japanese, Western and traditional (aboriginal) cultures, Taiwan is one of Asia's most fascinating places to visit. In addition to its spectacular cuisine, booming industry, thriving cities and stunning natural retreats, Taiwan also enjoys being one of the world's most hospitable destinations— locals are actually some of the friendliest in the world! Whether interested in culture, shopping and entertainment, nature or a combination of it all, Taiwan will not fail to deliver.

Just under a week in Taiwan affords enough time to truly capture what this dynamic destination has to offer. Gawk at the contemporary marvels and classic corners of Taiwan with the splendors of Taipei. From world-class museums and architectural wonders to traditional districts and notable shopping quarters, Taipei far exceeds its grand reputation as one of Asia's most exciting capitals. Discover the beauty that lies outside the big city with visits to some of Taiwan's stunning natural destinations.
